

Pictures: Mikal Ludlow CHML20110926C-006_C

CHML20110926C-002_C

GAME ON: Ellie Powell, 15, and Beth Peters, 14, play the personal finance game Keep the Cash!

Game makes finance fun for students

STUDENTS were on the money launching a revolutionary educational project.

Year 10 teams at the Cotswold School, Bourton, vied to manage their money once they leave the classroom in a new desk-top financial education simulation.

Keep the Cash! challenged youngsters to climb an aspiration-led lifestyle ladder as quickly as possible with challenges including opening a bank account, finding accommodation and paying monthly bills. The interactive game has been created by business education specialists Learn About Finance.

Business studies teacher Sarah Hanks said: "This is a difficult area to get students to appreciate but this simulation tackles the issues in a relevant, yet fun way."

GREAT MINDS: Game developers Ian Cornelius, left, and Andrew Berkley